Dear Colleagues and friends,

It has now become a tradition to meet in Dresden at the end of the winter and to discuss recent advances and future development in the field of postnatal adaptation, perinatal brain damage and regenerative therapies.

The program is developed by a large scientific advisory board, consisting of active members of the European Scientific Collaboration of Neonatal Resuscitation (ESCNR), the ALBINO-steering committee and the MASC-Prematurity task force.

The meeting provides a platform for scientific exchange for European clinicians and researchers with a special interest in the field. Distinguished speakers are invited to present scientific data and to share their practical experiences. The two days of the symposium provide participants with many opportunities for detailed discussions not only on the science but also on neonatal practice.

To make the symposium as interesting as possible, we are interested to have good discussions among participants. Therefore, the number of participants is restricted. However, after the great success with the internet life-stream during the previous meeting, we will try again to organize a live presentation of the symposium via internet for participants who cannot come to Dresden.

As in previous years participants are invited to become an active part of the meeting. Thus we continue to have an interactive session of "Video-Presentation", "Meet the Expert" and "Discuss your clinical case". Furthermore, the ESCNR will award ESCNR Young Investigator Price.

On behalf of the scientific advisory board, we are looking forward to welcoming you in Dresden!
